Smart watch u8 won't turn on

U8S smartwatches can't charge? Can't it come on? Can't connect to your phone? We have summarized a lot of problems of the U8S watch and offer solutions for solving them here. One of the easiest ways to enter the world of smart wear and tear is to own a practical and affordable device, such as a Bluetooth U8S smartwatch. Bluetooth convenience allows you to wirelessly connect your watch to your phone for a variety of watch-controlled features: making phone calls, sending messages, listening to music, and even taking photos! Life is not only smarter, but also more comfortable! However, sometimes your new smart life gets into a few problems, so to help new devotees of smart life, we have put together a list of some of the most frequently asked questions about Bluetooth U8S smartwatches and offer practical solutions. We hope this article will help you live a smarter life! Although the problem is outwardly straightforward, it can have more than a cause. One option is a bad or unsecured connection between the USB cable and the watch, the USB cable/charger/power supply may also be faulty or the component or hardware will fail. You can try the following fixes: • Remove the USB cable from your watch and reconnect it to ensure a fixed connection; or shake the watch body for a few moments before trying to reload the watch. • Switch to another USB cable and/or USB charger and compare the results. • Use a different power source: for example, a different USB port or socket. • If you are charging your watch for the first time, connect the smart device to a powerful power source, such as a standard socket, for at least 3 hours and then turn it on. • Once you confirm that the connection is secure and all the different components – USB cable, charger and power supply – work, but the watch does not charge, then the error lies either on the watch battery or on an internal hardware problem. For professional support, please contact the after-sales service. In general, we do not recommend taking the U8S watch to a standard electronic service warehouse, as it will be less familiar with the device than the manufacturer. How long a battery — any battery — can work actually depends on how the owner uses the device. Obviously, if you activate and use all the features of your watch all the time with Bluetooth turned on, the battery will run out very quickly, limiting its duration even after a full charge. Also, any screen activity will increase energy consumption. • If you've only used your watch a few times, charge it if you have about 10% power left – charge it for at least 2 to 3 hours before switching it on. • Also, to minimize power drain, turn off features you rarely use and run them only when needed. This issue usually occurs when the battery is completely removed or due to a faulty battery/component. • Charge the device for at least 15 minutes and then monitor if the watch is switched on. • When the watch is charged, there are some indications: for example, the screen lights up and a battery charging icon appears. If this happens, they are charged for at least 3 hours after full charge and then filled. • If the watch still cannot be drunk after a full charge, insert the needle into the reset hole of the U8S watch (located on the back cover) to reset it. Then you re-reinser your watch. • If the watch has absolutely no reaction to charging, i.e. no charging icon appears on the LED screen, read the troubleshooting procedure at #1 beginning of the manual. • Check your phone's operating system and Bluetooth version, they must meet the minimum compatibility requirements. This watch is only compatible with Android devices with at least Android 3.0 along with Bluetooth 3.0 or higher. • If these requirements are met but still cannot pair, make sure bluetooth has been activated on your phone and watch. • For a more precise step-by-step guide, instructions for pairing your watch with your phone. • Check your phone's Bluetooth connection records/history. If there are too many items, we recommend deleting the history and starting searching and pairing your watch with them again. • Bluetooth signal transmission may be affected by the environment: for a strong connection, make sure that there are no obstacles between the phone and the watch with a distance of less than 10 meters (ideally 5 meters). • Turn off your phone's Bluetooth and turn it back on. Or restart your phone if necessary. • Try pairing your watch with another phone to make sure your Bluetooth connection is working. If this is not the case, it is very likely that the internal hardware of the watch may be defective. For further assistance, please contact the after-sales service. No, that's not possible. Only Android 3.0 and above smartphones can be connected to this watch. The Bluetooth version of the phone should be at least 3.0. No, the U8S smartwatch can only be paired with Android devices, specifically Android 3.0 and above. The functions of the pedometer, rest and drinking water are accessible and are used on the watch. Pedometer does not work Before using this pedometer function, you need to fully activate the function on the watch: Turn on the watch, locate and start the pedometer function icon, click the center button to start the number of steps. If you see that time is moving, it means that the function is working properly. Also, click the bottom right button of the menu to enter the settings, choose Run in the background so that the number continues and the pedometer is in the background. Inaccurate results The U8S watch step/pedometer function works on the basis of the watch's own hardware and software algorithms: hand-waving gesture, step step, body gesture, road surface uniformity and road slope. So if your arm waves are too soft or your step is very short, the band may not detect these movements as a complete step. Try to complete the full steps with a complete range of motion. If the problem persists, try the following measures: • Reset your watch by inserting a needle into the watch reset hole located on the back cover, or remove and pull out the watch pairing connection again. • Sometimes the compatibility of your watch and phone can affect the pedometer function, make sure your phone operating system and Bluetooth versions meet the minimum requirements. • To avoid inaccurate step recording, the watch is programmed only to record steps after walking at least 10 continuous steps. If you walk less than the minimum and stop, they will not be counted. Yes, it can ring and vibrate. You can customize the mode to your own needs. Enter watch settings - Ringtone - Alert type to choose from: Ringtone Only, Vib. Just me, Vibe, and ring the bell, Vibe. Vib here means vibrations. This indicates a problem with the watch's operating system. Simply reset your watch: there is a reset hole on the back cover, just insert a needle to reset the watch. If the display problem persists, the screen/hardware is faulty, you should contact the after-sales service and ask for further assistance: arrange a product replacement, a refund, or a product return for repair. Both time formats are available, select your preferred one. Enter the watch settings - Hours - Time and Date - Time Format, choose 12 or 24. The U8S smartwatch is rated IP6X, giving it water resistance for everyday use, so you can wear it to wash your hands/face or even in the rain. However, it should not be worn during swimming and cannot be immersed in water – this will damage the smartwatch. We hope that with this guide you can get even more from your smart Bluetooth U8S watch. If you have encountered other issues that have not been mentioned here or the issues have not been fully resolved, you can submit a support ticket in our Gearbest Support Centre. We'll deal with them as soon as possible! Thanks! Selected solution Did you press the reset button on the back with a pin ? Try charging it from your computer, rather than a charger, it may take longer, but sometimes it helps . If you're still not happy, it can ... Today I would like to look at how to fix GT08, DZ09 or U8 Smartwatch does not fix the problem. If you own any of these watches, you know that this is an affordable range of smarwatches that make them very popular. Also, every now and then they tend to have a problem where you fully charge them and when you try to turn them on, they just don't turn on for some reason. Today, I will be looking at how you can solve this problem on some of these cheap smartwatches or similar devices in design. What's the problem? As described above, cheap smartwatches that are affected by this problem simply don't turn on even after you charge, press the power button, or wake up your sleep or home button, you simply won't get anything out of your watch. So much so that you can even consider throwing away this device and think it's worth it. Is the cause of the problem? In most cases, the cause is this watch, which does not switch on or off, is a manufacturing defect where the pins or terminals of the battery are not fully connected to the battery as they should. In other words, the battery is not completely behind when the cover is on the watch and seeing that your hands tend to be mobile and move around it will result in it moving from the fixed position in which it must be and thus without powering the device. For the battery to function properly, it must be tightly locked in its space so that it does not touch perfectly and does not swing or swing from the spot. What devices are affected by this issue? This issue applies to smartwatches such as GT08, DZ09 or U8 smartwatches, or devices of similar design. This can happen with a new smartwatch out of the box, or it can happen to you even after you have the device for a while and it worked well. How to fix the problem of not switching on with this cheap smartwatch? Please note that this fix only works in some cases and not in all cases. It advises that you try this fix at least a few times before giving up. 1. Remove the back cover of the smartwatch. 2. Next, cut off a piece of paper that, about 2-3 sheets thick, is emanated into the back of the battery watch. This will act as a stalemate, so the battery can properly connect with its connectors to power the watch once the cover is re-deployed. Also, a small piece of cotton can also do a trick the size of a q-tip. 3.Now they will re-snaat the back of the smartwatch. Now the battery will be perfectly pushed into place with the paper stand you create and is no longer released and now creates a perfect connection with the clamps and does not slide or fall off the spot due to the gap that was once between the battery and the cover. 4. Turn on the smartwatch as usual and it should be easy to turn on, unlike the previous settings. Final thoughts As you can see guys, this was a case of the battery not holding in place after the back cover of this smartwatch was placed, which can be very annoying as you can see. So the guys will share your experience below and tell me if it worked for you the way it worked in my case. If that's the case, share this article with a friend or two on social media. Save Save
